5. STAGES OF RISK MANAGEMENT FOR TRANSNATIONAL BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION.

5.1. C/TB Risk Identification

Risk identification is the first stage so that the construction of the Transparency and Business Ethics Program truly meets the objectives of preventing the risks of corruption and transnational bribery.

OCEANOS S.A has implemented a methodology considering the guidelines of ISO 31000 whose traceability is maintained in a Risk Matrix.

The company identifies the risks of Corruption and Transnational Bribery, taking into account the size, structure, nature, corporate purpose, economic activity, countries of operation, etc.

	LEGAL MANAGEMENT	Code: M-TBE-J-03
	COMPLIANCE MANUAL OF THE TRANSPARENCY AND BUSINESS ETHICS PROGRAM	Version: 04

These elements will be the necessary inputs for the creation and execution of policies, procedures and the risk matrix.

This is why it is necessary to analyze the specific characteristics of OCEANOS S.A, since that is the starting point for the implementation or updating of the PTEE not only to satisfy the interests of the organization, but also fully comply with what the provisions in External Circular 100-000011 of 2021, Law 2195 of 2022 and other corresponding regulations.

Area Managers or process leaders, as risk owners, have the responsibility of informing the Compliance Officer of the identification of new risks, additions or modifications to existing controls, which help mitigate the inherent risk of each process.

5.2. Identification of C/TB Risk Factors

Some of the risk factors that the company must take into account when preparing the risk matrix and other complementary measures for the proper functioning of the PTEE are:

- a. Country Risk. Refers to the company's jurisdictions of operation. Places where there are factors such as: absence of an independent and efficient administration of justice, high number of public officials questioned for corrupt practices, lack of effective regulations to combat corruption, lack of transparent policies regarding public procurement and international investments, weak administrative policy structure, absence of effective state presence in certain geographic areas, carrying out operations in tax havens, among others.
- b. Economic Sector Risk. They are niche markets where the corruption percentage is high according to studies carried out by the OECD. In addition, activities are included where a large number of permits and licenses granted by public officials are necessary, which facilitates carrying out corrupt practices.
- c. Third Party Risk. The parties that execute the businesses are listed, namely, contractors, suppliers and/or intermediaries where there may be collaboration or shared risk agreements in which it is difficult to demonstrate a legitimate purpose, or that, having a legitimate purpose, are used to cover up illicit payments.
- d. Others. All those that are not included in the previous categories but may represent a C/TB risk factor for the organization according to the risk assessment by the Compliance Officer.

5.3. C/TB Risk Measurement or Evaluation

Manuelita measures the impact and probability of occurrence of the risks of Transnational Corruption and Bribery, with the objective of determining the inherent risk, as per the

	LEGAL MANAGEMENT	Code: M-TBE-J-03

guidelines defined by the organization, and thus determining and implementing controls that mitigate them.

After the definition and implementation of controls; the residual risk is rated.

5.4. Control and monitoring of Compliance Policies and PTEE.

OCEANOS S.A must implement all mechanisms that contribute, from the execution of its commercial activity, to the fight against transnational bribery and corruption. This way, you will be able to constantly verify and evaluate that they are effective for this purpose.

In addition, OCEANOS S.A must take into account and inform the Compliance Officer of the regulatory changes of its activity, such as anti-corruption and transnational bribery regulations, to include in the PTEE Manual the entry into new markets or the offer of new products or services in special jurisdictions.

Additionally, compliance audits, supervision and monitoring activities must be carried out by the Compliance Officer at least once a year.

A documented risk matrix will be maintained that considers the risks inherent to the operation in terms of bribery and corruption. Process leaders must manage the risk matrix with the coordination of the Compliance Officer. It will be updated every time the area managers or process leaders deem it necessary, or when the Compliance Officer identifies possible new risks or controls that need requalification, or at least it should be reviewed once every two years with the processes and risks owners.

6. PTEE COMPLIANCE POLICIES

6.1. Anti-Corruption and Anti-Bribery Policy

For OCEANOS S.A, the anti-bribery and anti-corruption Policy is based on the principle of Zero Tolerance at all levels of the organization and in all the actions of counterparties linked to the entity.

All documents with which OCEANOS S.A formalizes its relationship with employees, suppliers and clients, must contain clauses in which said parties adhere and undertake to abide by what is defined in the PTEE.

The OCEANOS S.A Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption Policy emphatically prohibits bribes and gifts in any form, offered directly or indirectly or through a third party, that have the purpose of obtaining a benefit and/or influencing the company's processes.

It is the responsibility of the counterparties and any person who represents the interests of OCEANOS S.A, to report to the ethics line any circumstance that they consider may constitute a possible violation of the Code of Conduct and this Manual.

Some modalities through which acts of corruption could materialize are:

	LEGAL MANAGEMENT	Code: M-TBE-J-03
	COMPLIANCE MANUAL OF THE TRANSPARENCY AND BUSINESS ETHICS PROGRAM	Version: 04
		Page 22 of 34

- Offering or accepting inappropriate gifts.
- Offering or accepting excessive attention.
- Facilitation payments.
- Giving donations to political and/or charitable organizations without due diligence.
- Offering or accepting bribes or gratuities.
- Paying extortions;
- Using intermediaries and/or agents to act on behalf of OCEANOS S.A offering or paying some of the concepts listed above.

To comply with our anti-corruption and anti-bribery policy, we must take into account some concepts and alerts that should keep us attentive in the development of our activities in each internal process in which we participate:

Private corruption:

This crime is aimed at preventing acts of corruption between individuals, especially in the business sector, through undue favoring of third parties by directors, administrators, employees, among others, to the detriment of the assets and interests of the company.

It is criminally sanctioned: (Article 250 of the Criminal Code)

- Whoever, directly or indirectly, offers, promises or delivers an unjustified gift to a member of a company; and, additionally,
- Any member of the company who, directly or indirectly, requests, receives or accepts such benefit. In both scenarios there is a personal benefit for a third party.

Unfair administration: (Article 250B of the Criminal Code)

There is punishment for any damage to the interests or economic assets of a company through the fraudulent use of its physical assets (facilities, offices, furniture, machinery, among others) or intangible assets (for example, know-how, Good will or reputation of the company, developed business models, brands, among others), for their own benefit or that of a third party by the following people:

- Social administrator de facto or de jure. According to Law 222 of 1995
- Partners of the company established or in the process of being established.
- Managers.
- Employees.
- Advisors.

In this crime, the persons mentioned above are punished when they act in bad faith and abuse their roles to obtain a personal benefit or that of a third party.

The warning signs described here are some that we must take into account when identifying the risks associated with acts of corruption, and that if we act with diligence and opportunity we could prevent their materialization:

	LEGAL MANAGEMENT	Code: M-TBE-J-03
	COMPLIANCE MANUAL OF THE TRANSPARENCY AND BUSINESS ETHICS PROGRAM	Version: 04

- Contributions, in money or in kind, to political campaigns when they are prohibited or exceed the limits established in the applicable law.
- Delivery of gifts, in money or in kind, to an official employee, public employee or State contractor.

Transnational Bribery:

Bribery is one of the typical behaviors of corruption.

We are faced with transnational bribery when a company, through one or more collaborators, contractors, administrators or associates, its own or any subordinate company, gives, offers or promises a foreign public official, directly or indirectly, sums of money, any valuable object or other benefit, in exchange for carrying out, omitting or delaying any act related to the exercise of their roles and in relation to an international business or transaction.
